

Sheriff: Women plotted to murder Hustonville grandma

By Todd Kleffman
tkleffman@schurz.com

HUSTONVILLE — Lois “Minnie” Goode was not home on the afternoon of July 3 when two deaf women from Ohio, armed with butcher knives, were discovered inside her residence on Danville Pike. Had she been home, police believe the 82-year-old Goode would have been the victim of a crime almost too horrific to contemplate.

Lincoln County Sheriff Curt Folger said he has solid, high-tech evidence that Autumn

Drass

Horton

Drass of Columbus and Taquisha Horton of Cleveland intended to stab Goode to death that day — at the bidding of Jessica Callahan of Danville — to settle a score in a lesbian lover's quarrel.

“This is a big case, one of the most twisted I've ever seen,” Folger said Friday.

Drass, 23, and Horton, 27, are being held in the Lincoln County Detention Center on charges of first-degree burglary and attempted assault on Hustonville Police Chief Fred McCoy. Callahan, 27, of 232 Harding St. in Danville — who also is deaf — is being held in the Boyle County Detention Center on complicity to commit burglary and other unrelated charges.

Folger said he will present evidence to a Lincoln County grand jury on Aug. 23 seeking indictments against the three women for conspiracy to commit murder.

According to the sheriff, McCoy was dispatched to Goode's home just up the street from Hustonville Elementary School after a neighbor reported seeing four people go to the rear of the house and then two of them return to a car and leave. When McCoy arrived, he encountered Drass at the back door with a knife raised in her hand. McCoy

Stanford property taxes to stay put

By Ben Kleppinger
ben@theinteriorjournal.com

STANFORD — City Council members voted Thursday night to keep real and personal property taxes at the same rate for 2012 as they were last year.

Property Valuation Administrator David Gambrel said by keeping the same rate, the city would still see an increase in revenue because of annexations that expanded the amount of property subject to city taxes.

Multiple annexations in 2011, including the annexation of Walmart and the Lincoln County schools along U.S. 27, added hundreds of acres of commercial and public properties to the city limits.

By keeping property taxes the same, Stanford will still see an increase of more than $23,000 from real property taxes, from $190,620 in 2011 to $213,892 in 2012, Gambrel said.

The city will also get close to $6,000 more from personal property taxes, going from $15,734 in 2011 to around $21,610 in 2012, he added.

Following Gambrel's detailed explanation of how property taxes function, Mayor Bill Miracle recommended the council members leave rates the same for 2012.

Councilman Eddie Carter made the motion to pass a resolution keeping rates at 13.1 cents per $100 of real property value and 11.8 cents per $100 of personal property

Another man's treasure

Sellers crowded front yards and parking lots while buyers crowded both lanes of U.S. 127 over the weekend during the annual highway-long yard sale, which stretches from Alabama to Michigan. Above, shoppers peruse the many items for sale in front of Westside Community United Methodist Church. At left, an elephant pencil cup waits with some books for a buyer at a yard sale tent run by Jim and Charlene Lovett and their daughter, Tia Faulk, all of Liberty. Below left, buyers shop near a giant pile of clothing at Westside United Methodist. Below right, an antique typewriter sits for sale by Brian Mills of Stanford. Mills said he was selling a large number of antique items he found in a barn he recently bought. “It was a hoarder's nightmare,” he said.

City government candidates haven't filed

By Ben Kleppinger
ben@theinteriorjournal.com

With about a week left to file for the fall election, almost no one has filed to run for city commissioner or city council member in any of Lincoln County's three main municipalities.

County Clerk Sonny Spoonamore said Tuesday Jimmy Lane is the only person who has filed to run for Hustonville City Council. No one has filed to run for Stanford City Council or Crab Orchard City Commission.

Spoonamore said usually he sees people filing well ahead of the deadline, which is this coming Tuesday, Aug. 14 at 4 p.m. sharp.

Spoonamore has seen potential candidates miss the deadline by just a few moments. On one such close miss, the person got very angry, but Spoonamore said there's nothing that can be done once the clock strikes.

Current Stanford City Councilman Eddie Carter said while he hasn't officially filed yet, he does plan to file before the deadline and seek re-election. Carter said he believes the other council members plan to run again as well, they just haven't filed yet.

Current Crab Orchard City Commissioner Phylis Adams said she knows of at least three people, including herself, who plan to run for city commission, and there could be several more as well.

Adams is familiar with low candidate turn-out in Crab Orchard — two years ago, only two people had filed to run for city commission. With the deadline approaching, Adams said her friends convinced her to run for a seat on the commission.

Adams said if she hadn't run, her seat would have been left open for the mayor to appoint someone to.

Letters to the Editor

Dyehouse decision goes against common practice

My deceased husband was Dexter Todd, Magistrate of Lincoln Co. He passed away April 19, 2012. In response to some of the articles printed in the paper I will like to clarify some things which were printed. I was not chosen to run for the position in November because I chose not to fill out an application. I may not have had experience for the office but my husband did not have experience the first time he was elected to office as others who have won an election the first time. I think everyone deserves a opportunity to try sometime new. It's a learning process. I don't think I would have been easily influenced because in all areas of life we are faced with decisions about problems that occur almost daily. If I feel I need help I have a great friend whom I can talk to one on one in prayer. In other counties in Ky. it is a given decision that when an elected official dies the spouse or other family member is appointed to the office to fill the position until an election. This rule must not apply in Lincoln Co. or for a Republican. I can accept the decision because I have no choice. I appreciate everything that David Faulkner and Joe Stanley has done I think they were standing up for what is right. Dexter is truly missed. A life taken too soon. I ask everyone to remember me and my family in prayer as we face the days ahead.

Brenda Todd
Crab Orchard

Todd did not apply to run for seat

There was a very good article in the IJ about the appointment of Mr. Dyehouse to replace Dexter Todd on the fiscal court. I am very glad that the people in District 2 who Mr. Todd represented now have a voice on the court.

The article may have been a little misleading. The Republican Party was very much supportive of Brenda Todd filling the position left vacant by her husband. Some of us in the party understood she wanted that position, and we were happy to support her. In a completely separate issue, the Lincoln County Republican Party followed the party rules to accept applications to fill the position in a special election for a permanent replacement come November. The LCRP advertised in many venues, including the IJ, for the open position. At our regular monthly meeting on July 10, the delegates listened to the perspective candidates, voted and selected Lonnie Pruitt to run for the seat in November. Brenda Todd did not apply for the position.

We are thrilled that Lonnie Pruitt will be running on the Republican ticket this November. We hope everyone will look at his qualifications. We know he will well represent and serve the people of District 2.

Janet Gordon
Hustonsville

Clarification

Brenda Todd, widow of deceased Magistrate Dexter Todd, did not apply to run for the District Two magistrate seat in the fall election. An article in last week's Interior Journal mentioned she was not the Republican candidate, but did not specify she had not applied to run.

GUEST EDITORIAL — KENTUCKY NEW ERA

Locking up kids' futures

Jailing status offenders creates bad outcomes

Last year in Kentucky, youth status offenders were booked 1,335 times into a juvenile detention center. It cost approximately $1.48 million to keep them locked up for a total of 7,191 days, and their home counties paid $663,640 of that expense, according to a report from Kentucky Youth Advocates.

Was it money well spent? Many juvenile court authorities and groups that promote child welfare say no. Status offenses are low-level crimes. They are illegal only because they are committed by people younger than 18. Juveniles are charged with status offenses when they buy tobacco or alcohol, when they are beyond the control of their parents or schools and when they are habitually truant or running away from home.

Kentucky Youth Advocates, in a report titled "Ending the Use of Incarcerations for Status Offenses in Kentucky," argues that Kentucky's high rate of youth incarceration is ineffective and expensive.

"Not only is incarceration, or secure detention, the most expensive approach, but it is also the least effective, as youth who are detained face greater risk of poor education, work and health outcomes, as well as future incarceration. In fact, incarceration actually increases the likelihood that a youth who has committed a low-level offense will misbehave again.

Research has shown that even 15 years after their release, youth who had been incarcerated worked 10 percent fewer hours than people who had not been incarcerated," the report states.

These are the issues before the Kentucky General Assembly's Juvenile Code Task Force. Rep. John Tilley, D-Hopkinsville, is co-chair of the task force. Christian District Judge Jim Adams testified before the task force Tuesday in Frankfort.

Tilley and Adams say Kentucky's juvenile code should be modernized. We agree.

It's important for Kentuckians and the General Assembly to let the task force do its work. But when it comes time for lawmakers to consider recommendations from the task force, let's hope bad politics don't block good legislation. We've seen that often enough in recent years.

Getting tough on juvenile offenders sounds good enough until you consider what happens when children are locked up for status offenses. These are often minor offenses that indicate deeper problems in a child's life. Locking them up isn't working.

Happy birthday, World Wide Web

Thanks for expanding our personal freedoms

Welcome to adulthood, World Wide Web.

You were born on Aug. 6, 1991, as an interconnected system that makes information accessible around the globe. That makes you 21.

Since I can't buy you a drink, how about a First Amendment salute instead?

As it happens, you debuted as a publicly available and revolutionary communication service just a few months before the 200th anniversary of the ratification of the First Amendment as part of the Bill of Rights on Dec. 15, 1791. Thanks to you, the world – and the First Amendment's five freedoms of religion, speech, press, assembly and petition – would never be viewed the same way again.

You even had a birth announcement that day, penned by your father, Tim Berners-Lee. It reads, in part: "The WorldWideWeb (WWW) project aims to allow all links to be made to any information anywhere. ... The WWW project was started to allow high energy physicists to share data, news, and documentation. We are very interested in spreading the web to other areas. ..."

Like most parents, it would appear that Berners-Lee already was planning your future.

There were your first baby steps and early friends: Mosaic, the first browser that helped us find information and that later took the name Netscape. New kids moved into the neighborhood, with names like CompuServe, Yahoo and America Online, and later Microsoft, Apple and Google.

More and more of us

INSIDE THE FIRST AMENDMENT

Gene Policinski
Guest columnist

played with you in those early years – experimenting with your reach, discovering that we could turn up a zillion mentions of virtually any subject. And we could make ourselves heard, not just by those in earshot, but by the globe. It was fun. Few rules restrained us as we roamed your new world.

As you reached your teen years you fostered a new generation of communicators and a growing variety of users. Rebellious moments and new challenges arose as you matured.

The Web moved from being a toy to a tool – from a place for gamers, sports fans and early adopters to a widely used utility, a good place to get practical information, a new platform for self-expression. Companies found they could promote their wares and do business through you, thus forever altering the retail market.

There came the inevitable consequences of stepping out into the wider world. We were the targets of hackers, cheats and online predators. We suffered when you were infected with malicious viruses, spurious "facts" and hate-filled views. Adults began trying to set rules as a result. Congress enacted a kind of Internet curfew: the Communications Decency Act of 1996, its first attempt to regulate Web content, touted as a way to shield children from pornography.

But in 1997, in Reno v. ACLU, the Supreme Court struck down the anti-indecency provisions of the act, saying Congress had gone too far. About all that remains today is Section 230, which says Internet service operators are not legally liable for what others post.

Other memorable moments followed. Enter Wikipedia, that flawed but massive attempt to provide a self-correcting, self-sustaining, 21st century version of the venerable encyclopedia. YouTube now lets us broadcast to the world. There's Facebook. We've learned to talk to each other in 140-character messages via Twitter.

Efforts continue to legislate away your rawer edges, from salacious images to the coarse, vulgar comments that have moved from scrawls on a real wall to posting on a virtual one.

But as with all of us entering adulthood, nobody really knows your potential, where you will end up or what your full impact will be. We do know you've matured from toy to tool to necessity. We spend much of our days looking at media through you. Social movements, elections and even revolutions rely on you to start and stay alive.

The nation's Founders lived in a time when freedom of speech meant the right to say what you wanted to your neighbor, and perhaps also to people gathered on the village green. That freedom has moved from the village green to the village screen, with its enormous capacity to reach individuals, communities, nations, the world.

Those who ratified the First Amendment may not have been able to envision you, but they knew the value of what you make possible – freedom of speech and information, planet-wide and at our collective fingertips. They would value the way you allow us to track what our government is spending, what our officials are doing and how our society is changing.

I'm pretty sure they would join in helping to light the virtual candles. Happy birthday, Web.

An encouraging word Ambition is vital

By Howard Coop

One beautiful morning as I walked to the post office, I met a person that I had known for sometime. After a very pleasant greeting, we immediately began a rather spirited conversation. It didn't take long for me to sense the negative attitude that my friend possessed.

Soon after our conversation began, my friend asked me a very pointed question. It involved a young man, living in another community, who was a good friend of mine. After I responded to that rather pointed question, the comments about my friend became more and more critical. Finally, the person with whom I was conversing said somewhat sarcastically, "I don't like him; he's too ambitious."

My friend was an ambitious young man. To be ambitious is to possess an ambition, and that is a desire that drives one to achieve something in life. My thought, unexpressed at the moment, was: "You don't like someone because that person wants to achieve success in the field he has chosen for his lie's work?" It's a fact observable in everyday life: Little that is worthwhile is every achieved without ambition. An anonymous individual expressed it so well, "Stand still and silently watch the world go by---and it will."

Western civilization, of which we are a part, is permeated with the Judeo-Christian tradition. This tradition has given it a significant heritage dating back almost two thousand years. That heritage says, "Make it your ambition" to do three very specific things. And these three things, well done, that will always make life better. Those three important things are: "Lead a quiet life,"

"Mind your own business," "Work with your hands." And this work is done for two specific reasons: "So that your daily life may win the respect of" those with whom you associate, and "so that you will not be dependent on anybody."

So, ambition, controlled, is vital to a good life. It leads to significant accomplishment that is beneficial and satisfies the deep desires of the heart.

14 candidates preparing for Distinguished Young Woman

By Nancy Leedy

Preparations for the 2013 Lincoln County Distinguished Young Woman Scholarship Program are now officially under way.

The 14 Lincoln County High School senior girls participating in the 2013 program had their calendars for the next six weeks filled with practices, mock interviews, talent reviews and dress rehearsals following orientation at the Stanford Christian Church Monday night.

Lincoln County's Distinguished Young Woman (DYW) program will be held on Saturday, Sept. 22 at 7 p.m. in the Stuart Underwood Auditorium at LCHS, and the local committee took Monday to introduce itself to the 2013 DYW participants and to reveal plans for the program..

The local DYW committee, headed by chair Sheila Underwood, has given this year's participants plenty of incentive to work hard over the next few weeks in preparing for the program, with a minimum of $21,560 in cash scholarships up for grabs.

For the past 15 years, Lincoln County's program has been recognized statewide for giving the most scholarship money, and it was third in the nation last year in scholarship monies.

In addition to the cash scholarships, the Lincoln DYW program also makes available to the participants numerous college-offered scholarships. As of Monday, the committee had raised a minimum of $432,000 in college-offered scholarships.

The winner of the 2013 Lincoln County Distinguished Young Woman program will receive a $4,200 cash scholarship. The first runner-up will receive a $3,200 cash scholarship, second runner-up will receive a $2,200 cash scholarship and third runner-up will receive a $1,200 cash scholarship.

Since scholastic achievement is what the DYW program is all about, high academic performance will be well rewarded. A $1,000 cash scholarship will be presented to the overall scholastic achievement winner and additional money will be awarded to three preliminary runners-up. Those three runners-up will each receive $480.

To earn the cash and college-offered scholarships available, the DYW candidates first have to be evaluated on the qualities and characteristics that make up the total young woman, with an emphasis on fitness, talent, self expression (poise) and interview as well as academics.

Four winners will be chosen in each of the preliminary categories. The overall winners in interview and talent will each receive a $520 cash scholarship. A cash scholarship of $395 will be presented to the four overall winners in both the fitness and self-expression categories.

A $500 Jennifer Baker Memorial "Be Your Best Self" Award and a $500 Spirit Award will also be presented.

The candidates for the 2013 Lincoln County Distinguished Young Woman, along with their talents are: Jamie Bradford, stand-up comedy; Kiara George, dance; Bryana Deatherage, singing/monologue; Haley Reichenbach, dance; Megan Goode, monologue; Taylor Faulkner, piano; Kayla Upchurch, vocal; Alaina Mills, dance; Remonica Garr, monologue; Alex Bunch, vocal/dance; Miranda Ellis, poetry; Hayley Hogue, dance; Alyssa Moore, martial arts; and Kaylinn Clarkson, dance.

Tickets for the DYW program go on sale to the public Sept. 1 and are $8.

News from Stanford Nazarene Church

By Buford Edwards II

Sunday morning, Stanford Church of the Nazarene was blessed by the wonderful worship service as we enjoyed a wonderful worship service and were challenged by the Word of God as Bro. Buford brought the message on the subject of "Rushing God" from Genesis 16. On Sunday night, we gathered back together and learned about "God's Eternal Energy" from Jeremiah 2.

Come out Wednesday night for Christian Education Night. Our kids meet weekly and our adult class dubbed, "The Book" club is currently working through the book of Revelation. This week we will be finishing with our study of Rev. 18 and moving into chapter 19. Read up and join us for Bible study as we continue to discuss "Babylon's End" as well as the verse of the week: Rev. 18:4 (KJV), And I heard another voice from heaven, saying, Come out of her, my people, that ye be not partakers of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues.

Thought for the week: God has called all His people to come out and be separate from the world and "not be partakers of her sins."

The ladies meet the first Tuesday of every month at 6 p.m. in the fellowship hall. Their last meeting was Aug. 7.

The Jail Ministry meets every Sunday at 2:30 p.m. and the Nursing Home Ministry the first Tuesday of each month at 2 p.m. For more information, or to learn how to get involved, contact the church and leave a message.

The Men's Group meets every other month on the second Monday of the month. The next meeting is Aug. 13 at 7 p.m. Plan to come to this meeting. We will be planning an upcoming Rifle Shoot and cookout tentative for Sept. 1.

Work continues on Brianna's Angel House located across the street from the Community Outreach Center on Cutoff Street in Stanford. For more details and to learn how you can contribute to this ministry, contact the church at (606) 365-1260.

The church has an active food assistance program. If you know of anyone or have a need yourself, leave a message at the church.

Service times: Sunday school starts at 10 a.m., Sunday morning worship begins at 11 a.m., Sunday evening services at 6 p.m. and Christian Education Night is every Wednesday beginning at 7 p.m.

For more information about our youth group and children's programs, email the directors at www.stanfordchurchofthenazarene.com

If you would like more information about our church and events, contact Pastor Buford Edwards at (606) 365-1260 or visit us on the web. Don't forget to also "like" the Stanford Church of the Nazarene on Facebook to receive updates and an encouraging word.

Well-known McKinney resident Dewey Coffman died July 30 at the age of 94. At his funeral Friday, his casket was taken to Hustonville Cemetery by a horse-drawn cart, which headed up the funeral procession. According to Norma Atwood, Coffman's granddaughter, Coffman made quite a habit of keeping and driving a team of horses or mules, even breaking in a new team a few years ago. Coffman, his son-in-law and some other friends had planned a camping and wagon-riding trip to Mt. Victory for the same day, but instead it wound up being Coffman's "last wagon ride here on earth," Atwood wrote.

JPMORGAN CHASE BANK, N.A. PLAINTIFF
vs. NOTICE OF SALE DEFENDANTS
ELMER HARMON ET AL

FRIDAY, AUGUST 24, 2012, AT 10:00 A.M.
FRONT DOOR, LINCOLN COUNTY COURTHOUSE

Pursuant to a Judgment and Order of Sale of the Lincoln Circuit Court entered April 27, 2012, in the above-styled civil action, the undersigned Master Commissioner will sell the following real property located at 140 Amber Lane, Hustonville, Lincoln County, Kentucky, at the front door, Lincoln County Courthouse, on Friday, August 24, 2012, at the hour of 10:00 a.m., or as soon thereafter as said property can be sold, said property being more particularly described as follows:

BEING all of Lot No. 6, on the plat of Amber Lane, as shown more particularly as to exact location and dimensions thereof on amended plat recorded in Plat File B-336, records of the Lincoln County Clerk's Office.

This being the same property acquired by Elmer Harmon and Teresa Harmon, his wife, by survivorship deed from James R. Short Et Ux dated September 6, 2006, of record in Deed Book 365, Page 705, Lincoln County Court Clerk's Office. Teresa Harmon died on February 21, 2007, and pursuant to the survivorship provision in the aforesaid deed, complete fee simple title vested in Elmer Harmon.

The above described real property will be sold and conveyed subject to such valid and existing easements, restrictions, reservations, conditions, covenants and limitations apparent or of record in the chain of title.

The sale of the above real property will be made on a credit of thirty (30) days time with the privilege extended to the purchaser of paying the entire purchase price, or any part in excess of ten percent (10%) thereof, in cash at the time of the sale. If the sale be made on credit, the purchaser shall pay to the Master Commissioner immediately at the time of the sale ten percent (10%) of the total sale price and execute bond for the balance due in thirty (30) days, bearing interest at the rate of twelve percent (12%) per annum from the date of sale until paid, with a good and sufficient surety thereon; and the bond shall be secured by a lien upon said property sold which shall have the full force and effect of a judgment. The purchaser may pay the purchase price money due on the bond with accrued interest at any time before maturity.

The real property described herein is to be sold at the time and place stated; and shall be sold free and clear of all liens, indebtedness, interests and claims of the parties hereto, subject to any and all applicable statutory rights of redemption.

All delinquent ad valorem taxes, if any, interest and penalties will be paid out of the proceeds of said sale. The purchaser will be responsible for payment of the 2012 ad valorem taxes.

Possession of the real property will be given to the purchaser with the delivery of the deed of conveyance thereto. The purchaser will be responsible for all risks of loss to the premises upon acceptance of their bid at the time of sale.

The purpose of this sale is to satisfy the judgment of the Lincoln Circuit Court in the above-styled action in favor of Plaintiff in the sum of $119,538.21 plus interest, advances for the protection of the property, costs and attorney fees as authorized and provided in said Judgment.

For further information concerning the above sale contact: Hon. Ashley R. Carnes, Attorney for Plaintiff, Lerner, Sampson & Rothfuss, P.O. Box 5480, Cincinnati, OH 45201-5480, Tel. #513-241-3100.

News from the Kings Mountain community

Kings Mountain News
By Violet Bell/Beverly Murphy

The Harvey and Laura Jenkins reunion was held this past Saturday at the Pleasant Point Baptist Church in Kings Mountain. I am told that Harvey and Laura had 10 children and each of those children was represented on Saturday. Approximately 80 people attended with out of town guests from Tennessee, Ohio and Florida and everyone enjoyed the wonderful food and the chance to visit with family and friends. Virginia Jenkins, who has not been able to attend for a few years, was present this year. The group was entertained by Leona Jenkins Dunham's playing the piano. If you have never heard Leona play, you have indeed missed something great! I believe I could listen to her play all day. She certainly has a gift from God. It is wonderful to see families who make time to get together once a year.

We were told that after the Jenkins reunion Virginia Jenkins had a slight fall and had to be taken to the hospital to be checked out, but she is doing fine and is at home.

We are so sorry to have to report that Mr. Buddy Jones, a lifelong Kings Mountain resident, passed from this life last Saturday. Buddy was laid to rest on Monday of this week. Our thoughts and prayers go out to Mary and her children.

Mr. Robert Ratliff was taken to the University of Kentucky hospital this past week for surgery, but is recovering very well at this time.

Mr. Conley Sims and some of his family and friends each year entertain Kings Mountain residents with a 4th of July fireworks display. This year's display, much to everyone's disappointment, had to be cancelled because of dry weather. This past Saturday night there was a big pitch-in meal at Conley's house and, one month late, Kings Mountain was able to enjoy the annual 4th of July fireworks display. It was worth the wait.

Pleasant View Baptist Church held their Back to School Bash this past weekend with a cook-out and they also held a fireworks display for the 2012-2013 students.

Last week, Judy Stull, Carol Stull, Patsy Lawrence, Clara Stull

Perry and her friend Sharon enjoyed trying out a different restaurant in Danville. They had never eaten at the Mermaid and everyone enjoyed their meal. It is good to try different places to eat.

Ever since I have heard of the 127 Yard Sale, I have always wanted to attend at least part of it. This year was the year!! Deanna Floyd and I decided to go this past Tuesday. We wanted to start by visiting the booth of William (Jr.) Jenkins and his wife Sue who are two of our wonderful friends. They were set up just north of Salvisa. William makes and sells knives, hatchets, and fishing lures while Sue makes some beautiful jewelry. If you have never seen any of the products that they make, you have certainly missed something great. We saw another Kings Mountain native, Eddie Dye who was also enjoying the shopping. I think that I was responsible for picking the hottest day of the week to attend, but we did enjoy our day together, part of which was spent in an air conditioned restaurant!! I can now take out my "Bucket List" and mark off the 127 Yard Sale.

I would like to go again next year, just on a cooler day.

Thanks to those people who called with news. Anyone can call 365-2991 with Kings Mountain News.

News from Highland United Methodist Church

Sunday, Aug. 5, was a rainy, somewhat stormy day, but good attendance, worship and fellowship were had at the Highland United Methodist Church.

Once again there were many prayer requests. Some requests were for some very serious situations.

Jamie McGuffey's mother, Sue Peek, was in an extremely, serious auto accident. Mrs. Peek has many broken bones throughout her body. She has had one operation and is facing others.

Also, Jamie and Bowen had had a granddaughter in the Danville hospital.

Garrett Carrier is facing some plastic surgery and still has some immobility in his arm that was damaged by the dog mauling.

Both Arlene Bennett and Wilma May still have upcoming surgeries.

Jo Ann Elliott and Ron Hunkins still are dealing with difficulties from cancer treatments. Ron also had a cancer removed from his face this past week.

Jo Ann Elliott was our birthday person during

Sunday school.

A thank you note from Ron and Ellen Hunkins was read to the congregation in reference to Ellen's loss of her dear mother, recently.

The congregation was asked to remember Scot and Peggy Young in the loss of Peggy's grandmother, Ida Hurst.

Our prayers will be Peter Langford as he leaves this week for a stint of time in England, Australia, and then back to England before returning to the United States.

Joan Davis gave a positive report on Lavern Hensley. Lavern is Dart's cousin. She was reported to be soon ending her treatments and was doing well.

Rev. Scilley and Doris were happy to have present with them one of their grandsons, Aaron Scilley, from Maysville.

Sunday's scripture, read by Peter Langford, was from 1 Peter 3:8-22. Emphasis was on being ready, willing and able to give a reason for the hope within one's self as a result of God's love.

The back to school Sunday, Aug. 12, will include a special program and activities for children during Sunday school. During church, students, elementary through college, will be given gift certificates and special prayers will be prayed. After worship, there will be a cookout with Doug and Kim May as our cooks. Others are to bring items to complete the cookout.

During the fifth Sunday service on July 29, Pat Reed and Violet James were our greeters and Shelby Reed and Carl Elliott were our ushers. Thanks always go to Kim May and Betty Jo Singleton, our musicians, who provide instrumental music each and every Sunday.

Services at Highland each Sunday are at 10 and 11 a.m.

In reading a list entitled, "Why I'm Quitting Sports," one of the reasons was "Every time I went, they asked for money." Does that sound like a non-church attendee's excuse?

News from Fairview Baptist Church

By Shelby Lakes

On Sunday, Bro. Johnny Baker's message was titled, "Having the Mind of Christ." He referred to 1 Corinthians 2.

"Who or what controls your mind?" he asked. The answer will determine your mindset each day. In 1 Corinthians 2, Paul reveals several ways the Holy Spirit works in our lives. Only God can change our lives the way they need to be changed, through the Holy Spirit, and that spirit is the one that gives us the mind of Christ (verse 16). The Holy Spirit is the mind of Christ working in us, Bro. Johnny said.

We must seek the guidance of God every day of our lives, Brother Johnny said, because Satan had a stronghold on us. God can break Satan's strongholds down. Sometimes we listen to the world, but the resources of God are with us. But if you are not saved, God will only reveal certain things to you: that you are a sinner; and the good news of the gospel.

So how does a person live with the mind of Christ? Bro. Johnny asked. You find it in Luke 11:9, "And I say unto you, Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you," Jesus said. (End of sermon summary)

Celebrating birthdays were Gary Peck, Wanda Henderson, Bobby Meece and Melissa Rice. Bryan and Jennifer Gover celebrated their anniversary.

181 were present for the worship service.

NOTICE OF SALE
DEFENDANT

FRIDAY, AUGUST 24, 2012, AT 10:00 A.M.
FRONT DOOR, LINCOLN COUNTY COURTHOUSE

Pursuant to a Judgment and Order of Sale of the Lincoln Circuit Court entered May 11, 2012, in the above-styled civil action, the undersigned Master Commissioner will sell the following real property located at 193 Gentry Drive, Stanford, Lincoln County, Kentucky, at the front door, Lincoln County Courthouse, on Friday, August 24, 2012, at the hour of 10:00 a.m., or as soon thereafter as said property can be sold, said property being more particularly described as follows:

BEING LOT NUMBER TEN (10) of the residential development identified as Disney Place Development Phase No. 2 located in Lincoln County, Kentucky; and for a more complete and detailed description of said lot, reference is hereby made to the map or plat of said subdivision development which has been duly recorded and appears of record in Plat File A-45B, in the Office of the Lincoln County Clerk at Stanford, Kentucky.

The property identified herein is subject of the easements, restrictions and building setback requirements appearing upon the aforementioned plat.

This being the same property acquired by Victoria Epperly, a single person, by deed from Melissa McElroy, a single person, dated November 5, 2007, of record in Deed Book 375, Page 58, Lincoln County Court Clerk's Office.

The above described real property will be sold and conveyed subject to such valid and existing easements, restrictions, reservations, conditions, covenants and limitations apparent or of record in the chain of title.

The sale of the above real property will be made on a credit of thirty (30) days time with the privilege extended to the purchaser of paying the entire purchase price, or any part in excess of ten percent (10%) thereof, in cash at the time of the sale. If the sale be made on credit, the purchaser shall pay to the Master Commissioner immediately at the time of the sale ten percent (10%) of the total sale price and execute bond for the balance due in thirty (30) days, bearing interest at the rate of twelve percent (12%) per annum from the date of sale until paid, with a good and sufficient surety thereon; and the bond shall be secured by a lien upon said property sold which shall have the full force and effect of a judgment. The purchaser may pay the purchase price money due on the bond with accrued interest at any time before maturity.

The real property described herein is to be sold at the time and place stated; and shall be sold free and clear of all liens, indebtedness, interests and claims of the parties hereto, subject to any and all applicable statutory rights of redemption.

All delinquent ad valorem taxes, if any, interest and penalties will be paid out of the proceeds of said sale. The purchaser will be responsible for payment of the 2012 ad valorem taxes.

Possession of the real property will be given to the purchaser with the delivery of the deed of conveyance thereto. The purchaser will be responsible for all risks of loss to the premises upon acceptance of their bid at the time of sale.

The purpose of this sale is to satisfy the judgment of the Lincoln Circuit Court in the above-styled action in favor of Plaintiff in the sum of $81,661.21 plus interest, advances for the protection of the property, costs and attorney fees as authorized and provided in said Judgment.

For further information concerning the above sale contact: Hon. David E. Johnson, Attorney for Plaintiff, Lerner, Sampson & Rothfuss, P.O. Box 5480, Cincinnati, OH 45201-5480, Tel. #513-241-3100.

Hustonville may add safety officer

By Ben Kleppinger
ben@theinteriorjournal.com

HUSTONVILLE — Visibility of law enforcement in Hustonville would effectively double under a plan supported by Mayor Mark Spivey and Police Chief Fred McCoy to add a safety officer position to the Hustonville Police Department.

Spivey told Hustonville City Council members Tuesday night that Troy Cain, who has law enforcement experience with the Lincoln County Sheriff's Office, will begin a trial period of training with McCoy within the next few days.

Spivey said Cain has agreed not to be compensated during his trial period, during which McCoy and Spivey will train him.

After the trial period of 90-120 days, the city council will have the opportunity to review the situation, discuss how much Cain might be paid and move forward with him as an official mem-

McCoy said having an additional person to patrol the streets will increase police visibility in the city and discourage people from committing crimes.

"Sometimes having someone just driving the cruiser around is enough to deter it," he said. "I don't see no negative in it as long as I get a qualified person."

Spivey provided council members with a job description for the new safety officer position that could be created for Cain.

The safety officer would be a "uniformed, non-sworn member of the Hustonville Police Department" who would have main responsibilities including handling "general public assistance calls," ticketing illegally parked vehicles, enforcing city ordinances and directing traffic at crash scenes, according to the job description.

Spivey said if hired, a safety officer would work separate shifts from McCoy in order to maximize the vis-

The city council unanimously approved a motion showing their support for the move.

McCoy thanked the council and Spivey. He said while other places have seen bank robberies and other crimes over the years, Hustonville has been fortunate to have relatively peaceful streets.

Adding the safety officers will help ensure those peaceful streets remain peaceful, he said.

"We've done good over the years, but I think that's going to help us," he said.

Tax rates staying put

In other business, the city council approved a first reading keeping real and personal property tax rates for 2012 at the same rates they were in 2011.

If the council passes a second reading, the city's real property tax rate will remain at 11.9 cents per $100 of assessed value, and the per-

H'burg Man's death classified as murder

Body found in Hustonville cellar has ties to Danville shooting suspect

By David Brock
dbrock@schurz.com

HUSTONVILLE — The death of a Harrodsburg man who was last seen with the suspect in a deadly double shooting has been ruled a homicide.

Lincoln County Coroner Farris Marcum said July 30 the final autopsy report from the state medical examiner's office in Frankfort classified the death of Clint Disken, 31, as a homicide, although a cause of death was not determined. Marcum said the level of decomposition made it impossible to identify the exact manner of death or complete a toxicology report.

Disken shared a trailer home at 55 Fairlane Ave. in Hustonville with Thomas Hager Jr. until he was last seen in early March. Disken's mother, Patricia Devine, reported him missing after news broke that Hager, 39, of Danville had been arrested in the shooting deaths of Mark Snyder, 21, of Waynesburg and Ted Sparks, 54, of Danville on May 21 at Sparks' home.

The last time Devine saw or heard from Disken was March 3 when he and Hager stopped by her Harrodsburg home on their way to a restaurant in Frankfort. She and Disken's sister have said they believe Hager was using Disken's Facebook account following his death to make it appear Disken was in Bowling Green.

On May 25, authorities found Disken's body in the cellar of a barn behind the trailer on Fairlane Avenue — after Hager's former in-laws — who own the trailer and live on the property — reported an odor. At the time the remains were found, Marcum said he believed the body could have been there for several weeks.

Diskett

During the initial autopsy, Marcum said there were no signs of gunshot or stab wounds or any other obvious indicators of trauma.

Marcum acknowledged Disken's death being ruled a homicide without a clear cause seems to indicate the law enforcement investigation has yielded additional information. However, he does not know what may have been uncovered.

Trooper Paul Blanton, a spokesman for Kentucky State Police post in Richmond, said the death investigation by Detective Monte Owens is ongoing and the case has not been reclassified a homicide. He said Owens is continuing to conduct interviews.

Blanton indicated a case could be presented to the commonwealth's attorney in the near future, but he declined to elaborate on what charges may be forthcoming. According to Blanton, state police do not identify individuals as “persons of interest” and said Hager is not officially a suspect.

Although Hager has been interviewed, at this point he would only be considered a witness, Blanton said. He has not been charged with any crime related to Disken's death.

Hager was arraigned July 10 in Boyle Circuit Court for allegedly murdering Snyder and Sparks and assaulting Phillip White, 37, of Lancaster, who survived being shot while trying to flee the scene. The case was scheduled for a status hearing Tuesday.

Bluegrass 911 wants to test new water-meter fee

Board members recommend gradual switch from landlines

By Ben Kleppinger
ben@theinteriorjournal.com

LANCASTER — Lincoln and Garrard counties have been inching closer to ordinances aimed at improving how 911 service is funded, but now the area 911 call center says it wants a test drive before it commits to the new plan.

Bluegrass 911 board members voted unanimously Monday to recommend that the counties change their plans — at least temporarily — for doing away with the current $3 monthly fee on landlines that provides a majority of the emergency call center's funding.

Rather than immediately replacing the landline fee with a $2.50 monthly fee on all water meters, the board voted it would prefer to keep the landline fee for now, while instituting a much smaller water-meter fee of 25 cents until the viability of the new fee system can be guaranteed.

Officials have been debating for years what to do about shrinking funding for Bluegrass 911, which provides emergency-call-center coverage for Lincoln and Garrard counties.

Bluegrass 911 has traditionally been funded by a fee assessed on every landline in its coverage area. But as fewer and fewer people purchase telephone landlines, less and less money is coming in from those landline fees.

That means for Bluegrass 911 to continue functioning without using money from either counties' general funds, rates have to rise on landlines or funding has to come from another source.

The most recent proposal to gain traction — shifting the cost from landlines to water meters — has been supported by both counties' fiscal courts. Garrard County has passed two readings of an ordinance implementing the new water-meter fee and doing away with the landline fee, while Lincoln County has passed the first reading of a largely identical ordinance.

But Bluegrass 911 Board Chairman and Garrard County Judge-Executive John Wilson said there is a potential constitutional issue with the state law that the counties' ordinances cite as their authority to levy the new water-meter fee.

Until that constitutionality can be verified — or denied — Bluegrass 911 appears hesitant to end its income from landlines and commit to water meters.

"We're just moving forward in an abundance of caution," Wilson said. "The motive behind this strategy is to be able to challenge the constitutionality of the statute that allows this, while exposing the taxpayer to minimum liability."

The state law in question makes it legal for local governments to establish 911 telephone services and states that funding for the 911 services "may be obtained through the levy of any special tax, license, or fee not in conflict with the Constitution and statutes of this state."

Bluegrass 911 board members want to see the constitutionality of that state law challenged before they hang the center's funding on it.

In theory, if the constitutionality was upheld, the water-meter fee would be OK. If the law was deemed unconstitutional, Bluegrass 911 could seek other funding options instead of the water-meter fee.

But until there's a fee in place, there's no legal standing for anyone to challenge the constitutionality of the fee.

Implementing the fee without making it Bluegrass 911's main source of funding allows the constitutionality of the law to be challenged without threatening the funding of Bluegrass 911.

Board member and Lincoln County Attorney Daryl Day suggested the 25-cent water-meter fee to the other board members. Placing the minor fee on water meters would allow for the constitutional challenge, he said. And if the constitutionality stands up in court, then the counties could implement the full $2.50 water-meter fees and repeal their landline fees without fear, he added.

Board members discussed many 911 funding options and issues before going into executive session to discuss pending litigation. When the board emerged from executive session, it voted to recommend the 25-cent water-meter move.

Garrard County Fiscal Court next meets Aug. 13, while Lincoln County Fiscal Court meets Aug. 14.

The courts would have to approve two readings of new versions of their 911 funding ordinances before the recommended fees would take effect.

From A1

there is a very high threshold of wrongdoing that must be met before someone can sue for such a claim.

Tapp cited case law establishing that intentional infliction of emotional distress claims must involve behavior that is "truly outrageous, intolerable and which results in bringing one to his knees."

"If true, the allegations asserted by Gooch constitute conduct of questionable morality," Tapp wrote.

"However, even if Gooch was terminated so that Miracle's paramour could assume her position as city clerk and even if Gooch's termination letter ... disseminated mistruths and lies, such conduct simply is not so outrageous and intolerable that it 'results in bringing one to his knees.'" When contacted by phone Friday, Gooch directed a reporter to her attorneys for comment.

"We're not giving up," she said. "We're going to appeal."

One of Gooch's attorneys, Ephraim Helton, had not responded to calls asking for comment by press time.

Miracle said last week he was pleased with the ruling.

"We felt pretty good about it," he said. "I think this was probably the best thing that could happen for us with this particular suit."

City Attorney John Hackley told city council members Aug. 2 that getting a summary judgment is a difficult achievement. Over his career, he has dealt with around 1,000 civil cases and only seen five or six summary judgments, he said.

"It's a camel passing through the eye of a needle to get it," he said.

Hackley said Gooch had 10 days from Tapp's decision to ask him to reconsider the case and 30 days to file an appeal.

As of Tuesday afternoon, no additional documents had been filed beyond the summary judgment ruling in the case file.

Hackley said even if the ruling is appealed, he doesn't believe there's a strong case for overturning Tapp's ruling.

"I think it would be tough to overturn," he said.

value. The council voted unanimously in favor of the resolution.

City Attorney John Hackley said he will draft the appropriate ordinance supporting the resolution and the council will be able to vote on that in future meetings.

Alternatively, council members could have voted to take a 4-percent increase, which would have increased the real property tax rate to 13.6 cents per $100. Gambrel said such an increase would have added almost $8,000 more in real property tax revenue.

The city council could also have generated up to $9,173 in revenue from increasing the personal property tax, Gambrel noted.

Gambrel said the city is in a different boat from the county because the annexed land has increased Stanford's total property value, while the county is on the decline.

Houses around the county are abandoned and falling into disrepair, leading to large devaluations. Gambrel said one example is a house that was valued at $80,000 eight years ago is now worth just $30,000.

Gambrel has previously estimated the total property value loss in Lincoln County at around $4 million.

"A lot of things that happened nationally are really coming home here," he said. "This is the first time I've dealt with more abandoned and neglected property than I have new property."

DEFENDANTS

FRIDAY, AUGUST 24, 2012, AT 10:00 A.M.
FRONT DOOR, LINCOLN COUNTY COURTHOUSE

Pursuant to a Judgment and Order of Sale of the Lincoln Circuit Court entered May 9, 2012, in the above-styled civil action, the undersigned Master Commissioner will sell the following real property located at 110 Logan Woods Drive, Stanford, Lincoln County, Kentucky, at the front door, Lincoln County Courthouse, on Friday, August 24, 2012, at the hour of 10:00 a.m., or as soon thereafter as said property can be sold, said property being more particularly described as follows:

Being Lot 14, Phase 3, Foster's Lane Residential Development (Logan's Woods Development) as shown on a plat of record in Plat Slide B-562, Lincoln County Court Clerk's Office, to which reference is hereby made for a more particular description thereof.

This being the same property acquired by Adam Grigsby and Katherine Grigsby, his wife, by deed from Bridget N. Carmicle Et Vir dated July 31, 2009, of record in Deed Book 386, Page 751, Lincoln County Court Clerk's Office.

The above described real property will be sold and conveyed subject to such valid and existing easements, restrictions, reservations, conditions, covenants and limitations apparent or of record in the chain of title.

The sale of the above real property will be made on a credit of thirty (30) days time with the privilege extended to the purchaser of paying the entire purchase price, or any part in excess of ten percent (10%) thereof, in cash at the time of the sale. If the sale be made on credit, the purchaser shall pay to the Master Commissioner immediately at the time of the sale ten percent (10%) of the total sale price and execute bond for the balance due in thirty (30) days, bearing interest at the rate of twelve percent (12%) per annum from the date of sale until paid, with a good and sufficient surety thereon; and the bond shall be secured by a lien upon said property sold which shall have the full force and effect of a judgment. The purchaser may pay the purchase price money due on the bond with accrued interest at any time before maturity.

The real property described herein is to be sold at the time and place stated; and shall be sold free and clear of all liens, indebtedness, interests and claims of the parties hereto, subject to any and all applicable statutory rights of redemption.

All delinquent ad valorem taxes, if any, interest and penalties will be paid out of the proceeds of said sale. The purchaser will be responsible for payment of the 2012 ad valorem taxes.

Possession of the real property will be given to the purchaser with the delivery of the deed of conveyance thereto. The purchaser will be responsible for all risks of loss to the premises upon acceptance of their bid at the time of sale.

The purpose of this sale is to satisfy the judgment of the Lincoln Circuit Court in the above-styled action in favor of Plaintiff in the sum of $99,343.09 plus interest, advances for the protection of the property, costs and attorney fees as authorized and provided in said Judgment.

STANFORD — Drivers traveling U.S. 27 south of Stanford Friday evening saw the aftermath of what appeared to be a fairly severe wreck, but there was no one injured and only one vehicle was damaged.

Lincoln County Deputy Sheriff Ryan Kirkpatrick said Rebecca Roark of Stanford swerved her Ford SUV to avoid another vehicle, and wound up with her vehicle on its side.

Roark was examined by Stanford EMS personnel who responded to the scene, and she checked out OK without any injuries, according to Kirkpatrick.

Roark was second in a line of southbound vehicles on U.S. 27 that were stopped in the left lane behind a vehicle waiting to turn left onto Old Somerset Road, Kirkpatrick said.

Roark decided not to wait behind the turning vehicle and began to pull into the right lane to drive around. As she changed lanes, the vehicle in front of her did the same thing, cutting her off, Kirkpatrick said.

Roark swerved to avoid the other vehicle, and her SUV flipped onto its side and spun around.

Kirkpatrick said the vehicle that was waiting to turn left and the vehicle that pulled out in front of Roark both left the scene.

Lincoln County firefighters directed traffic around the wreck until it could be cleared.

Inmates indicted for robbery, assault

STANFORD — Five inmates at Lincoln County Regional Jail have been indicted for allegedly beating up another inmate and taking his phone card.

William Bullock, 34, of Liberty, Brandon Biggs, 31, of Stanford and Brandon Vanover, 18, Joseph Denny, 21, and Travis Puckett, 30, all of Lancaster, each were charged with first-degree robbery, second-degree assault and intimidating a witness for allegedly causing serious injury to Claude E. Bailey while robbing him of his phone card used to make calls from the jail and then threatening him if he reported the incident on July 5.

Bonds were set at $150,000 each. A captain at the jail testified before the grand jury.

Others indicted recently by the grand jury were:

- Wendy S. Jones, 39, of 522 Cross Road, Eubank, welfare fraud for allegedly failing to report changes affecting her eligibility for benefits between September 2010 and July 2011. Bond was set at $5,000. Bradley Reid testified.
- Jason Manuel, 37, of 257 Pine Grove Road, second-degree robbery for allegedly using physical force to rob Dwayne Naylor on June 16, 2011. Bond was set at $75,000. Stanford police Detective Barry Allen testified.
- Tabitha Schmierns, 29, of 830 E. Main St., promoting contraband for allegedly having buprenorphine inside the Lincoln County Detention Center on May 12. Bond was set at $10,000. Parsons testified.
- Deedra Shipp, 1140 Pine Grove Road, promoting contraband for allegedly having buprenorphine inside the Lincoln County Regional Jail on May 28. Bond was set at $10,000. A jail captain testified.

- Jeffrey Martin, 33, of 43A Jessica Way, second-degree assault and burglary for allegedly striking Linda Jones in the face and breaking into the home of Joanna Cooper on May 3. Bond was set at $150,000. Jones testified.
- Charles E. Richards, 43, of Hustonville, and William K. Goode, 21, of Danville, allegedly cultivating marijuana on Dec. 21; Richards also was indicted for receiving stolen property for allegedly having a gun stolen from James T. Cloyd. Bonds were set at $10,000 each. Deputy Dewayne Taylor testified.

Lincoln men indicted in Casey

LIBERTY — Two Lincoln County men were indicted by a Casey County grand jury for allegedly taking several pieces of equipment from Hickory Hills Country Club.

Brandon Christopher Schmierns, 28, and Trevor Wayne Sims, 23, both of Stanford, each were charged two counts of burglary, two counts of theft and four counts of being persistent felony offenders.

According to the indictments, Schmierns and Sims broke into the club's maintenance and golf cart storage buildings on April 22 and took a golf cart belonging to Joe Emerson and a riding mower, weed-eaters and other equipment belonging to the club.

Bonds were set at $2,500 each. Deputy Chad Weddle testified before the grand jury.

MURDER PLOT

drew his weapon and, after Drass retreated into the house, called for backup, Folger said.

When Folger and deputies Danny Gilliam and Bill Hester arrived on scene, McCoy had Drass and Horton in handcuffs. During their investigation, the officers recovered another butcher knife and another especially damning bit of evidence — Drass's cell phone.

"The deaf can communicate very well with text messages," Folger said. "I got a search warrant for the phone and it revealed what I was beginning to suspect."

Folger declined to elaborate on the specific contents of the phone, but said he recovered evidence in texts and photographs that show the plan was to murder Goode that day. One of the messages, sent after Drass was in custody, was a desperate plea to delete the previous incriminating phone activity, he said.

Folger said he gained further corroboration of the murder plan after interviewing Kerry Zamara, also of Columbus. Zamara was at Goode's home that day, but left with Callahan before police arrived. She was initially charged with complicity in the burglary and jailed, but the charge was later dismissed, court records show. Folger said he released Zamara on the condition she would cooperate in the investigation and testify against the others or risk being indicted herself.

"Kerry will be my witness," the sheriff said.

According to Zamara's account, she and Callahan left Hustonville and returned to Danville, leaving Horton and Drass at Goode's home, where two windows had been broken out to gain entry. After arriving in Danville, Zamara, who also is deaf, became scared and texted a family member in Columbus to come get her.

Folger said he was able to text Zamara the next day and convince her to return to Lincoln County, where she was jailed on the complicity charge and interviewed with the help of an interpreter. Through Zamara and other sources, Folger said he was able to put the pieces of the plot together and determine a motive.

Callahan had previously been in a long-term relationship with Goode's deaf daughter, Folger said. Callahan was not mad at the daughter over the break-up, Folger said, but resented the daughter's interference with Callahan's current girlfriend. The daughter had been helping Callahan's current lover escape the abusive relationship by assisting her in getting emergency protective orders, Folger explained.

"Jessica was wanting to get back at (the daughter) by attacking her mother," Folger said.

According to Folger, the four women became acquainted via the Internet, using computers equipped with Web cameras that allowed them to establish video contact and communicate using sign language. Callahan made a trip to Columbus to meet the women prior to going back to get them and bring them to Danville, the sheriff said.

Folger said he has not yet determined if Callahan befriended the Ohio women with the intention of enlisting them in the murder plan or "they just hatched it after they got back here."

"Jessica is the leader of this thing," Folger said. "I understand she's a pretty intimidating person, very manipulative."

Callahan, who was in custody in Boyle County on other charges before being charged in the burglary, has not yet been arraigned in Lincoln District Court, court records show. Drass and Horton have pleaded not guilty on the burglary and assault charges and their cases were handed up to the grand jury after preliminary hearings in Lincoln District Court last month.

Folger is convinced the three will be indicted on murder conspiracy charges when the grand jury convenes later this month.

"I feel like we've got a real strong case," he said.

Dunn took soccer skills to next level with Olympic Development Program

By Nancy Leedy

Carter Dunn of Hustonville has never forgotten the disappointment he felt four years ago after failing to make the Kentucky U13 Youth Soccer Team of the Olympic Development Program (ODP).

Dunn has come far since that fateful day. Hard work and lots of practice have paid off for Dunn as he made the Lincoln County High School varsity roster and began play in club soccer.

But, most importantly, he redeemed himself by making the 2012 Kentucky U17 Soccer Team in the Olympic Development Program.

"I think not making the U13 team was kind of a motivator for me," said Dunn, 16. It think it pushed me to get better so I would get an invitation. I finally did get one this year so I was excited."

And getting an invitation was a must. Lower level ODP state teams are chosen through open tryouts, however, it's invitation only for the upper levels.

Only 35 invitations were sent out statewide for the U17 Kentucky Youth Soccer tryouts and Dunn was one of the talented athletes to be honored.

But making the team was no easy task. Dunn went through a number of practices with the ODP, which led to more and more boys getting cut from the program until the final roster was reached.

"The 35 invitations went out and then 22 were chosen from those and then, when you get to regionals, the 22 is cut to 18," said Dunn, a junior at LCHS.

Dunn and the other U17 Kentucky players endured tryouts March 3 and 10 in Owensboro and training sessions in Bowling Green before beginning tournament play in Memphis, Tenn. and Dayton, Ohio. Then the final 18 took the floor for the Region 2 Championships in Rockford, Ill.

Dunn's determination to make the team never waned, despite the grueling tryouts.

"I wasn't going to be satisfied until I made the team and we'd gotten to Rockford (Illinois)," he said. "I was really excited (to make the team). I had worked hard and was just really excited."

Dunn and the Kentucky ODP U17 team, which was coached by University of Louisville assistant Dale Helfrich, competed against teams from Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, Ohio, South Dakota and Wisconsin at Rockford in the Region 2 Championships.

The Kentucky squad fared well in the ODP regional tournament, despite limited playing time together, entering the semifinals as the only East Jessamine played spoiler in the Lincoln County's boys golf opener Monday, posting a five-stroke win over the host Patriots.

Lincoln's Zach Johnson carded the day's low round at Dix River Golf Course Monday, with a 3-over-par 38, but 12 strokes separated the top four players, putting Lincoln at 178 and opening the door for the visiting Jaguars.

And the Jaguars walked right in, led by Bruner and Walker with rounds of 41. Only eight strokes separated East's scoring players with Jackson shooting a 42 and Philpot a 49 to give East Jessamine a 173.

Taylor Edwards and Roland Taylor both shot 45 for Lincoln in the opening match and Shade Jacobs and Hunter Munford, shared the fourth scoring spot with rounds of 50.

"I think we were a little nervous with it being our first match," said Patriot coach David Ledford. "They (Jaguars) had already played a tournament and I think having played gave them an advantage."

Ledford felt course conditions may have also factored into the day's scoring.

"It think it was set up pretty tough," he said. "I think it had been set up tougher because of the club championship that was supposed to have been played last weekend. And it was a challenge for them at times."

undefeated team.

“We’re at the stage in our soccer where we’re supposed to be fundamentally sound and able to work as a group. And we did that,” said Dunn.

However, Dunn and Kentucky’s hopes of a regional title were squashed in the Final Four round as defending national champion Michigan knocked out Kentucky in a semifinal shootout.

“The score was 1-1. We scored kind of early and they scored in the last 10 minutes to tie the game. Then it went to penalty kicks and their keeper stopped two penalty kicks and ours didn’t,” Dunn said.

While disappointed with the loss, Dunn said the experience was rewarding.

“It was hard for us, but we were satisfied with how we’d played before then (semifinals) and glad for the experience,” he said. “We’d just given up a really bad goal (for tie), it was a rebound goal. Michigan ended up just crushing Nebraska to win the tournament. They beat them like 6-1.”

After having competed on an ODP team, does Dunn have aspirations of someday possibly being a member of the United States Olympic soccer team?

“It’s everyone’s dream to make that, but you’ve got to set your goals at what you can reach,” he said. “I know I’m not going to be the best player in the United States but I’m going to be the best player I can be – wherever that takes me.”

And there’s no lack of trying to “be the best player” from Dunn, who does have hopes of playing college soccer, with high school soccer, club soccer and soccer camps keeping him on the run.

“After (ODP) I went to a Georgetown College camp, Kentucky’s camp and Lindsey Wilson’s camp back-to-back-to-back,” he said. “I just love soccer.”

DUNN (15), shown in action for LCHS last season, was one of only 18 Kentucky athletes chosen for the state’s U17 Olympic Development Program soccer team.

Summer drought puts bears on the move

FRANKFORT, Ky. - This summer’s early drought has prompted the London Ranger District in the Daniel Boone National Forest, including all campgrounds around Laurel River Lake, to implement a mandatory food storage order in an effort to prevent possible interactions between bears and visitors.

The drought has impacted the availability of black bears’ natural foods, and as those foods have diminished, bear sighting reports have increased considerably in the London Ranger District.

Forest visitors must store food inside a hardtop vehicle or bear-resistant container when not cooking or eating. Burning or burying food, trash or any other bear attractant is prohibited.

Backcountry campers must suspend food and garbage at least 10 feet off the ground and four feet out from any tree or pole.

“In most areas of eastern Kentucky, this summer’s wild berry crop disappeared quickly,” said Steven Dobey, bear biologist for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. “This is a very important food source for this time of year and with it gone, bears are roaming extensively in search of alternate foods.”

July is also the end of the breeding season for bears so, in conjunction with the shortage of natural foods, the natural tendency for male bears to travel is at a peak right now. Ultimately, this creates a heightened potential for human-bear interactions, and often in places typically not frequented by bears.

“Right now, residents living or recreating in bear country need to be particularly mindful of food and garbage containment,” said Dobey. “The most effective resolution to almost all bear issues is also the simplest; eliminate access to human-related food.”

Mandatory food storage orders are not new for the Daniel Boone National Forest. Existing food storage orders remain in effect for the Stearns Ranger District and the Red River Gorge. The orders define a bear attractant as any substance having an odor that may attract bears. Food, cooking grease, toothpaste, soap and garbage are considered attractants.

About 70 percent of all nuisance complaints in Kentucky are directly related to bears getting into somebody’s garbage. After repeated access to human-related food or garbage, bears begin to lose their natural fear of people. Ultimately, it is that change in behavior that can cause nuisance problems in neighborhoods, towns, and backcountry areas. Kentucky law makes it illegal to feed bears – intentionally or unintentionally.

“Human-bear interactions are by no means restricted to metropolitan areas,” explains Dobey. “Access to garbage or food in more remote areas causes problems every year, particularly in campgrounds.” The resolution is the same, however, and eliminating access to food is the key.

One who didn't seem too bothered by the course was Johnson, an LCHS senior, who had the only sub-40 round of the day.

"Zach played well today and he's going to be our leader," Ledford said. "He was the two-man behind Chris Butler last year and he got a lot of experience. He'll shoot right at par most of the time. I know he may not play his best every day, but on an off day he's still going to be about 40 or 41."

Edwards, a junior, and Taylor, an eighth-grader, were the 2-men behind Johnson Monday and Jacobs, a senior, and Munford, a sophomore, figured in the team scoring. Ledford says he expects those names to repeat often.

"That next level is all pretty close," he said. "Taylor, Shade Roland and Hunter I think will continue to shoot better and help us and I expect Ryan Montgomery and Noah Brown to also move up."

chance to tackle its home course again next Tuesday as the Patriots play host to Boyle County, and Ledford hopes to see improved scoring.

"The 178 we shot today, I think we are better than that," he said. "I think we just needed to get a match in and shake the nerves. I think we will get better."

Kayla Davis had the Lady Patriot low for the day with a 45 and Lewis followed with a 46. Maggie Taylor chipped in with a 52 and Kaycie Bandura added a 56 to give Lincoln a 199 for the match. Amye French rounded out Lincoln's team play with a 74. Casey scored a 19-stroke win over the Lady Patriots, shooting a four-man 180.

National Forest illustrate the proactive nature of bear management," said Dobey. "Ultimately, food storage restrictions benefit the well being of people as much as bears."

If camping, picnicking, hiking or fishing, food should be stored in the trunk when vehicles are left unattended.

In residential areas, don't leave garbage outside overnight if at all possible. Instead, wait until the morning of the pick-up to put it outside. Food scraps, pet food, even seed in bird feeders, can attract hungry bears looking for an easy meal. Also avoid throwing food scraps outside to feed wildlife or pets as these are often overlooked lures for black bears.

"Just 10 years ago it was a rarity to even see a black bear in Kentucky," said Dobey. "Today, there is potential for regular sightings in any county east of the Daniel Boone National Forest. Contrary to popular belief, bears were not stocked in eastern Kentucky. Their natural return is a true wildlife success story and a testament to the overall health of Kentucky's forests."

FARM FACTS

Stockpiling grasses for fall and winter pasture

Now is the time to begin stockpiling cool-season grass pastures. Stockpiling helps broaden the pasture season for the cow herd, reduces feed and labor costs by lowering the amount of hay needed, and provides an ideal location for the beef cow herd to winter and calve.

It's really easy to begin to stockpile. Simply take cattle off pastures now, apply nitrogen fertilizer, and allow grass to accumulate growth until late November or December. Then, put cattle on the pasture one section at a time until they've finished grazing the whole field.

Tall fescue and Kentucky bluegrass are the best grasses to stockpile in Kentucky. Both retain green color and forage quality late into winter, are somewhat resistant to low temperatures and form a good sod.

Apply nitrogen in mid-August. Topdress at the rate of 150 to 200 pounds of Ammonia Nitrate per acre or 150 - 175 lbs. of urea per acre. Urea can volatilize in the hot sun so it is best to apply urea just prior to a rain or early evening when you expect a heavy dew.

Yields can be very good when water is available during the stockpiling period. Tall fescue can produce two tons of hay equivalent up to late November. With adequate water producers can achieve 25 pounds of dry matter for each pound of nitrogen used.

After frost, let cattle graze grass-legume fields quickly before plants deteriorate. Then, put animals on the stockpiled grass fields. For the most efficient use of stockpiled fields, establish a strip grazing system by using a temporary electric fence to section off areas of the field. When animals have grazed this area, move the fence to open a new strip. Repeat this process until the entire field has been grazed.

Stockpiled grass is an excellent choice for fall-calving cows because it can be used to meet high nutritional needs after calving and during the breeding season. Grazing stockpiled grasses may offer the most benefit to spring-calving cows in thin body condition during the fall. Stocker cattle can be grazed on stockpiled fescue with good results. Using stockpiled grasses helps lower feed costs when backgrounding stocker cattle.

Late Summer Sowing of Alfalfa

Establishing a good stand of alfalfa is expensive and time consuming, but the success rate is high if you give attention to the important factors. Follow these steps for best results in getting a dense, weed-free stand.

Step 1. Variety selection
A large number of adapted varieties are available to select from. Selection of varieties should be based on yield potential, pest resistance and winter hardiness. Variety information is available at the U.K. Extension Office.

Step 2. Seeding rates

Alfalfa should be seeded at 20 lb of seed per acre for pure alfalfa stands. Use 16-18 lbs. of alfalfa seed per acre when sowing with a grass. The seeding rate for the added grass would be six lbs. of either orchardgrass or endophyte friendly fescue or endophyte free fescue.

Step 3. When to sow

Late summer seedings need six to eight weeks to germinate and grow before the first hard freeze. This usually means planting between Aug. 15 and Sept. 15. Major concerns at this time of year are a lack of adequate soil moisture and sclerotinia crown rot. Sclerotinia stem and crown rot of alfalfa only infects in the late fall (October/November) and almost always only affects tender seedling plants. Planting alfalfa early in the late summer seeding period allows the plant to grow and develop more of its natural resistance to sclerotinia before the infectious period.

If the soil is dry, prepare the seedbed but do not plant alfalfa until an inch or more of rain falls. Then, finish preparation and plant the alfalfa as soon as possible.

Hay hotline reactivated to help farmers

Agriculture Commissioner James Comer reminds Kentucky livestock producers that the Kentucky Department of Agriculture can help them find badly needed forages for their animals as many Kentucky pastures and hay fields have dried up in this year's drought.

"Kentucky farmers feel frustrated and helpless because of this summer's hot, dry weather," Commissioner Comer said. "Many of our livestock producers are having to feed hay and other forages that normally would be set aside for winter. The department's forage sales directory and hay hotline can help them find the forages their animals need."

The forage sales directory enables livestock producers to search for forages by county. Entries contain information on the nutritional and energy levels of the forages offered for sale. To search the directory, go to www.kyagr.com/buyky/corral/haylistingpara.aspx. Commissioner Comer reactivated the hay hotline to connect farmers needing hay with those who have hay to sell. The hotline number is (502) 564-4983. To list available hay for sale, or for more information, go to www.kyagr.com/market-ing/forage/HayForageDr oughtRelief.htm.

The Kentucky Department of Agriculture makes no guarantees or claims to the quality, price, or nutritional value of hay and forages submitted through the hay hotline. The department suggests that any hay purchased be tested for quality and protein.

Western Kentucky is in extreme drought, and central Kentucky and the Bluegrass region are in moderate drought. The University of Kentucky Agricultural Weather Center reported that western Kentucky would need nearly 16 inches of rain to end the drought.

Lincoln students participate in 2012 Rogers Explorers

Lincoln County Middle School students Craigory Coppola, Sammy Griffin and Auston Kirk have graduated from The Center for Rural Development's 2012 Rogers Explorers youth leadership program.

The students put their math, science and technology skills to work this summer attending the Rogers Explorers program from July 18-20 on the campus of Eastern Kentucky University (EKU) in Richmond.

They were among 29 students from Southern and Eastern Kentucky to participate and graduate from this session of Rogers Explorers and start building their leadership skills and future in some of the nation's top in-demand careers.

"These students are the region's future business and entrepreneurial leaders," said Lonnie Lawson, president and CEO of The Center. "The Rogers Explorers program gives students hands-on experience in a college environment and lets them see the value of higher education while preparing them for success."

Rogers Explorers spend three days and two nights on a leading college campus where they work with experts to further develop their math, science and technology skills.

The program provides leadership opportunities and unique learning experiences for middle school graduates about to begin their freshman year in high school.

"It is encouraging to see these students in the Rogers Explorers program have their eyes on the future," said Delaney Stephens, youth programs coordinator and community liaison for The Center. "By participating in this program, they have the unique opportunity to receive hands-on instruction in today's high-demand math and science careers."

The Rogers Explorers program is presented by The Center, a nonprofit organization in Somerset, to rising ninth-grade students within its 42-county primary service area in partnership with the University of the Cumberlands, Lindsey Wilson College, Eastern Kentucky University and Morehead State University.

2012 ECU Rogers Explorers: Twenty-nine rising ninth-grade students from across Southern and Eastern Kentucky graduated from the 2012 Rogers Explorers youth leadership program held July 18-20 on the campus of Eastern Kentucky University (EKU) in Richmond. Graduates included Lauren Wethington, Casey County; Nick Alevras, Evan Hensley, and Aaron Smith, Clay County; Kaitlin Jenkins, Harlan County; Parisa ShamaeiZadeh, Johnson County; Craigory Coppola, Auston Kirk, and Sammy Griffin, Lincoln County; Kara Beth Williams, Lee County; Kennedy Harbison and Sarah Deckard, Metcalfe County; Ashlin Trivett and Avery York, Monroe County; Sarah Estep, Lillie Eastham, Aubrey Kelley, Lauren Maynard, Shea Minton, Savannah Muse, Brian Rutherford, Molly Smith, and Ashley Wahlman, Pulaski County; Clay Ackerman, Russell County; Jilly Bruns, Sarah Dickens, and Danielle Dickens, Taylor County; Davis McCracken, Wayne County; and January L. Moore, Wolfe County.

Ward hired as district coordinator

Mrs. Karen Hatter, superintendent of schools, and the Lincoln County Board of Education is pleased to announce the hiring of Mr. Jim Ward as District Coordinator of Curriculum, Assessment and Instruction.

Superintendent Hatter commented, "It is great to have Mr. Ward back in the district. Jim will be an integral part of our leadership team and will work closely with district staff to provide the very best academic experiences for Lincoln County students. In this position, Mr. Ward will serve as the district assessment coordinator and professional development coordinator, as well as the district liaison in the turnaround effort at Lincoln County High School. The hiring committee recommended a skilled and experienced educator to move us closer to our goal of 'Every Student, Every Classroom, Every Day—College/Career and Citizenship Ready'", Karen Hatter stated.

Mr. Ward possesses a rich and varied educational resume as a teacher, principal, and KDE consultant. Beginning his career as an elementary teacher in Rockcastle County, he ascended into the administrative ranks when he was named principal of Crab Orchard Elementary School in 1998. In 2006, Mr. Ward accepted the position as a Reading First State Coach with the Kentucky Department of Education and in 2007 was promoted to the position of the Kentucky Reading First State Co-Coordinator where he was responsible for the statewide oversight of the Reading First Grant in forty-two districts and seventy-two schools. For the past three years, he has been principal of Roundstone Elementary in Rockcastle County.

Mr. Ward responded to the offer by saying, "I am extremely excited to be a part of Lincoln County Schools once again. I am anxious to be a team player in order to help students realize their dreams."

Mr. Ward began his new position on August 6, 2012.

Stanford High School Class of '62 celebrates 50th reunion

Stanford High School graduating Class of 1962 celebrated it's 50th reunion on Saturday, July 28.

The celebration began with some of the class members attending the Elvis Presley Concert held at the Community Arts Center on Friday evening. Saturday, the classmates gathered in front of their former alma mater, and now houses the Lincoln County Board of Education. After greeting each other with hugs, laughter, maybe a few tears, and taking group pictures, the classmates moved to the historic L & N Depot to continue an evening of "Remembering when..."

The night was dedicated to the seven classmates who served in the armed forces during the Vietnam War. James Disney, David DeMarcus, Gorden Sheron, Joe Francis, Herner Burton served in the Army; Gary Taylor in the Air Force; and Earl Cooper in the Navy.

A memory board displayed the pictures of deceased classmates

Virginia Adams, Joan Walters, Charles Miracle, Terry Decker, Bobby Hurst and Joe Francis. The table decorations included replicas of businesses that were on Main Street 50 years ago. The center piece of yellow roses was sent to Mrs. Helen Francis as she was the only living Homeroom Mother. She had also been the kindergarten teacher of her daughter, Margaret, and Don Wooldridge.

Calvin Denham (Class of '63) took the attendees down memory lane, recalling when times were safer and slower. Many memories were mentioned including the methods teachers used to keep students in line. Some former students admitted to receiving a firm application with a paddle. Others recalled teachers who preferred a smack on the hand with a ruler or maybe a good twist to the earlobe. For Mrs. Owens, it only took a stern look. Everyone agreed they felt they were blessed to have had caring, giving teachers and that they grew up in the Best of Times.

Paul Naylor of Sevierville, Tenn., and Margaret Francis Seifert-Russell who flew in from her vacation home in Florida, received the prizes for having traveled the farthest. Patsy Stull Lawrence was recognized as having the most combined children, grandchildren and great grandchildren.

The class is grateful for all those in the community who helped make the evening one to remember.

Farthest Travelers

At left, Paul Naylor and Margaret Francis Seifert-Russell received prizes for having traveled the farthest, and below, Linda Sears Lynn holds a model of Begley's Drug Store.

Family Worship Center news

By Aline Matlock

Family Worship Center was blessed with a song by Pastor Gates on Sunday. The church was filled with praise and worship for the Lord.

Sister Judy Gates held a back to school party for the children in the church on Saturday, Aug. 4. They had a wonderful time.

A wonderful gospel group called “Brothers Forever” held a concert in song at Family Worship a few weeks ago. Their singing and testimonies blessed everyone that was there.

Our condolences to Bro. and Sis. Marty Pribula and Bro. Dennis Cochran and families on the death of their mother. Our thoughts and prayers are with all of you.

The message Sunday was from Jeremiah 12:1-5. It was “Contending with Horses”. Bro. Gates preached this message with the anointing of God’s Spirit. That’s what God wants from His shepherd and pastor, to speak with anointing.

Jeremiah speaks about running with the footmen, how can you contend with the horses?

He spoke of dealing with every day problems, things we feel are too hard to bear, what are we going to do when things get really rough. We are faced every day with the enemies of our soul.

Trials of every kind, whether it be financial, sickness, even our thoughts become our enemy. We are pulled, from every side, knowing not where to turn, but if we have Jesus in our lives, He will see us through everything.

If small things seem to get us down, what are we going to do when we face big things?

The Lord has prepared His people for this time, He has given us His Spirit, to overcome.

He asks us to trust Him, whatever may come, many people are facing many things, especially today.

Sometimes I often wonder - how could it get worse. But it can and it will - God’s word tells us that things will. Matthew 24: declares a time of trouble. That will be hard to bear, and Jesus has given us the answer “Seek the Lord, with all your heart, He is our protector, our source of strength, our shepherd and so much more.

We must be prepared for things that lay ahead, persecutors, haters of God and everything God stands for. Many in the world are feeling these things already. People are being destroyed because they declare their commitment to God.

Jesus told us to put on the whole armour of God and declare our allegiance to Him.

I believe God is preparing the church today to get stronger, to overcome the real battle when it comes!

You say how do I become stronger to stand through this time:

- 1) Read the word
- 2) Be filled with the Spirit
- 3) Trust God
- 4) Put on spiritual weapons that include the breast plate of righteousness, helmet of salvation, and the sword of the spirit!

News from Pleasant View Baptist Church

By Scena Ann Petrey and Martha Roberts

Mike Bastin, Josh Jacobs, Brackie Gaither and Bro. Jamie Lawrence opened services on Sunday, Aug. 5 with a Southern gospel quartet special. “Step into the water, wet your feet in the water of His love” were words in the old gospel song.

Cherie Martin and her grandson Ryan continued the special music with, “In the morning when I rise, give me Jesus. You can have all this world, just give me Jesus.”

The entire service centered on the theme of the message: baptism. Bro. Kyle’s message was from Romans 6:1-4 and 1 Cor. 12:12-13. Baptism is a symbol of a life change through Jesus. Baptism shows the death, burial and resurrection of Jesus. So our baptism shows our death and burial to our old ways of sin and a resurrection to a new life in Jesus.

The two main truths of the message were baptism shows us we are one with Christ and we are one with God’s people.

Sunday evening’s service began with a special by Jessie Wilson singing “Call on Jesus”.

Stacy Story introduced the Crossings Kids who attended camp at Cedarmore July 22-25. Thirty-seven attended this camp with 28 children and nine counselors. The children’s Bible study was focused on the story of Jonah, and they studied about how people retreat from God when He calls them for a task, how they then suffer the consequences of having run from God, and how they can then turn back to God and be redeemed. It was a wonderful time of study and fun for the children, as well as the counselors, and the counselors expressed thanks to the parents for allowing their children to attend and to the church for their prayers and for financial help with this endeavor.

Aaron Cook then spoke about the youth’s participation in KHO. He served as an intern with KHO for 11 weeks, but 20 of the youth participated in a mission in which homes were repaired for those in need. Aaron pointed out that the purpose of KHO is to “show the love of God in a practical way.” These young people worked diligently to serve others and still participated in Bible study and devotions. Their scripture theme was taken from Psalms 46:10. “Be still and know that I am God. I will be exalted among the nations. I will be exalted in the earth.”

Bro. Kyle spoke briefly concerning the mission trip to West Virginia. Lincoln County partnered with Casey and Pulaski counties to work with Vacation Bible School in Charleston, W. Va. The group helped West Virginia Baptist conduct their Vacation Bible School and also conducted backyard Bible clubs in other areas. This team began with 15 members and then grew as the week progressed and others came to join them. It was a time for the adults and the children to learn of God’s provision as there was a shortage of supplies but all needs were met.

The church was reminded that we should be grateful for the opportunities given to us to minister to others and that we should take advantage of these opportunities to serve others.

The service was closed by the congregations singing the chorus of “Great Is Thy Faithfulness” as we reflected on God’s care for us.

The men’s cake bake fellowship will be Sunday, Aug. 12 at 6:30 p.m. at the church shelter. The church will provide the hot dogs and hamburgers; everyone should bring a salad or vegetable. Come join us for a great time of fellowship and food.

If you are a church van driver, you will need to attend a driver’s training class, which will be offered Saturday, Aug. 18 at the church from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Bennie Jacobs will be leading the class. This is required by our church insurance in order to drive the van.

No IMPACT for the next three Wednesday nights: Aug. 8, Aug. 15 and Aug. 22. Our annual IMPACT bash will be Sunday, Aug. 16 with our regular Wednesday night IMPACT program/meals beginning Wednesday, Aug. 29 at 6:30 p.m.

On Saturday, Aug. 25, the Sunday school teachers and leaders will have a mini-retreat from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at the Lincoln County Baptist associational building.

Everyone is invited to a Sunday school breakfast Sunday, Aug. 26 at 9 a.m. The breakfast will be served by the deacons to promote Sunday school and show appreciation toward Sunday school teachers. There will be no early service for this special fellowship.

Dates to remember: Aug. 25 - Sunday school leaders mini-retreat; Aug. 26 - Sunday school breakfast; Sept. 2 - Sunday school Promotion Sunday; Sept. 5-8 - Pictorial directory dates; Oct. 19-20 - Men’s conference in Somerset.

Thought for the week: “To get nations back on their feet, we must first get down on our knees!” (Billy Graham)

NOTICE OF SALE

KRISTIE GOODIN AKA KRISTIE R. GOODIN ET AL

DEFENDANTS

FRIDAY, AUGUST 24, 2012, AT 10:00 A.M.
FRONT DOOR, LINCOLN COUNTY COURTHOUSE

Pursuant to a Judgment and Order of Sale of the Lincoln Circuit Court entered May 11, 2012, in the above-styled civil action, the undersigned Master Commissioner will sell the following real property located at 147 Trudy Lane, Stanford, Lincoln County, Kentucky, at the front door, Lincoln County Courthouse, on Friday, August 24, 2012, at the hour of 10:00 a.m., or as soon thereafter as said property can be sold, said property being more particularly described as follows:

Being Lot 15 of Rolling Meadows as shown on a plat of record in Plat Slide C-157, Lincoln County Court Clerk's Office, to which reference is hereby made for a more particular description thereof.

This being the same property acquired by Michael Goodin and Kristie Goodin, his wife, by deed from Todd Coleman Et Ux dated June 8, 2007, of record in Deed Book 371, Page 527, Lincoln County Court Clerk's Office.

The above described real property will be sold and conveyed subject to such valid and existing easements, restrictions, reservations, conditions, covenants and limitations apparent or of record in the chain of title.

The sale of the above real property will be made on a credit of thirty (30) days time with the privilege extended to the purchaser of paying the entire purchase price, or any part in excess of ten percent (10%) thereof, in cash at the time of the sale. If the sale be made on credit, the purchaser shall pay to the Master Commissioner immediately at the time of the sale ten percent (10%) of the total sale price and execute bond for the balance due in thirty (30) days, bearing interest at the rate of twelve percent (12%) per annum from the date of sale until paid, with a good and sufficient surety thereon; and the bond shall be secured by a lien upon said property sold which shall have the full force and effect of a judgment. The purchaser may pay the purchase price money due on the bond with accrued interest at any time before maturity.

The real property described herein is to be sold at the time and place stated; and shall be sold free and clear of all liens, indebtedness, interests and claims of the parties hereto, subject to any and all applicable statutory rights of redemption.

All delinquent ad valorem taxes, if any, interest and penalties will be paid out of the proceeds of said sale. The purchaser will be responsible for payment of the 2012 ad valorem taxes.

Possession of the real property will be given to the purchaser with the delivery of the deed of conveyance thereto. The purchaser will be responsible for all risks of loss to the premises upon acceptance of their bid at the time of sale.

The purpose of this sale is to satisfy the judgment of the Lincoln Circuit Court in the above-styled action in favor of Plaintiff in the sum of $121,675.71 plus interest, advances for the protection of the property, costs and attorney fees as authorized and provided in said Judgment.

For further information concerning the above sale contact: Hon. Philip S. George, III, Attorney for Plaintiff, Nielson & Sherry, PSC, 639 Washington Avenue, Newport, KY 41071, Tel. #859-655-8430.
